CHAIRMAN DAVID BLOXHAM

A very warm welcome to the directors, players and staff of Stevenage FC to the Completely-Suzuki Stadium for this afternoon's League One fixture. Stevenage have had a flying start to life back in League One currently standing fifth in the league table following their promotion from League Two last season. I expect today's game to be a hard fought and closely contested fixture.

Being a member of the board of any football club carries many privileges and responsibilities. The start of the 2023/24 Football League season has not been particularly kind to us in various ways and resulted in us being at the foot of the League One table without a win to date. This state of affairs has been a matter of increasing concern to the board and fans alike. The last three to four weeks have been difficult as we all look for that first win and turn the corner.

We can all identify what we may regard as reasons or explanations for a poor run of form but inevitably the focus usually lands on the manager/head coach.

I met with Wade Elliott at his home in Bristol following a board meeting on Wednesday afternoon to explain the boards thinking. I have mentioned above that the role of being a board director carries many privileges and responsibilities. One of the hard and difficult responsibilities is undertaking the task of explaining to a good employee of the club that the board had reached a decision that we needed to make a change.

Wade is an extremely good man whose role and contribution to the club should not be understated. Wade played a material part in assisting Michael Duff in getting us to the play-offs during the Covid season and subsequently gaining promotion as champions in 2020/21. He then assisted Michael in securing our best ever league position in 2021/22 before Michael left for Barnsley. Wade then took over as head coach and ensured that we retained our League One status last season finishing in the club's second highest ever league position.

Wade is an honest, hard-working, and deep-thinking man who accepted the club's decision graciously but with sadness. I thank Wade for all he has done for our club and on behalf of all the board wish him well in what lays ahead. I have told Wade that he will be made most welcome at Whaddon Road should he choose to come and see us in the future.

As a Club we must now look to the future and start the process of improving our league position. Wade's assistant, Kevin Russell has agreed to take charge of the first team for today's game and

I hope that we will all give Kevin and all the players and staff our full support as we try to turn our form around.

During the last few days I have spoken to a number of people around the club and it is clear that the players had been 100% behind Wade and recognised how hard he worked. I feel sure that the players will be disappointed by Wade's departure and equally will now wish to fight hard collectively to improve our current position.

We will now be looking at our options in terms of a permanent new appointment and that process is well underway. In the meantime, I urge us all to stick together in supporting the club.

Thank you again Wade.

COYR,
David

“Wade is an extremely good man whose role and contribution to the club should not be understated”

CAMERON PEUPTION

As the transfer window slammed shut three weeks ago, Cheltenham Town added several new faces in the final days with Australian youngster Cameron Peupion arriving on loan from Brighton and Hove Albion.

The 20-year-old plies his trade as an attacking midfielder and like many of the Robins' other loanees, he is embarking on his first journey in senior football.

"I'm really excited," started Peupion.

"I just want to get stuck in and hopefully help the boys and turn things around."

Peupion began his footballing journey down under with his boyhood club Sydney FC, where progressively moved up through the age groups. All before a successful trial with on the south coast of England with Brighton saw him earn a contract at the Premier League club.

The club, renowned for their recruitment in recent years, gave Peupion his first team and Premier League debut in the 2022/23 season, as he came on in a 4-1 defeat to Newcastle United, toward the end of the top flight campaign.

"I've really enjoyed playing for Brighton and making my debut was unreal and brilliant. It couldn't have been a better journey so far and I'm excited for this next part."

Naturally, his attention turned to earning more regular opportunities at a senior level and that is something the Robins have presented to him.

"I like what we are trying to do and we need someone to create some chances and more goalscoring opportunities."

Despite no prior experience of senior football outside of a handful of appearances for Sydney and Brighton, Peupion isn't letting that faze him ahead of his journey in Gloucestershire.

"When you feel physically ready and ready for that next challenge you want to play week in week out at a first team level and you just know the time is right."

After a couple of substitute appearances for the Robins, Peupion is eager to demonstrate his full capabilities in front of the home faithful at the Completely-Suzuki Stadium.

"I'm a creative player, I try and make things happen, get goals and assists and help the team in that way."

2022/23

2nd, League Two

Stevenage Football Club in the past 18 months have undergone a transformative rise under the management of Steve Evans that has seen them promoted from League Two and currently in the midst of an excellent start to life in League One.

The 2021/22 season was largely a forgettable one for Boro fans, with a 21st place finish that saw them narrowly beat the dreaded drop out of the football league structure. It was in March of that season that Evans arrived at the club and after steering them to safety, he inspired a remarkable turnaround the following year that saw them finish second and return to the third tier for the first time since 2013/14.

The step up hasn't deterred Stevenage though as they began the season with three consecutive wins in the league and currently occupy fifth place with a singular defeat coming on the road to Reading. Dreams of bettering their best ever finish at this level, sixth, are quickly becoming a reality.

Cheltenham provide them with their next test and the two sides haven't met for a couple of seasons owing to the Robins' promotion to League One. Their last meeting saw Stevenage fall to a 1-0 defeat to their visitors that day with the 2018/19 season the last time Stevenage emerged victorious in this fixture.

When you think of the players at Stevenage, it is hard to look past the talismanic figure of Jamie Reid up front. The Englishman has six goals to his name this term following 14 in their promotion winning season. Playing alongside him are other key members of last season's squad with the much-revered figure of captain Carl Piergianni in defence and the creative hub of Jordan Roberts offering the crucial link between defence and attack.

However, an influential figure from the 2022/23 season has departed in Luke Norris, who has moved on after netting 14 goals himself last season. Boro moved quickly to replace his goal threat though with the loan signing of Charlie McNeill from Manchester United and an experienced signing in the same position with Kane Hemmings.

All signs on and off the pitch point to a clear desire to maintain their spot in the third tier of English football and anything above that expectation will undoubtedly delight the Boro fanbase.

IT'S #HERGAMETOO

In 2021, a group of passionate women fans felt mobilised to start a campaign called #HerGameToo.

The campaign is committed to fostering an ethos in football where women are welcomed and respected equally and can be confident sharing their opinions about football online and in person without fear of sexist abuse. This afternoon, we introduce two new advocates to the cause.

Cheltenham Town's Her Game Too ambassador, Kelly-Marie Selby, tells us: "Growing up loving football, it was so sad that not only did girls not have the opportunities that boys had to further their abilities, but trying to voice my opinion was almost impossible. As soon as I tried to express any views I was told I was a girl, I didn't know anything about football, and I should just concentrate on make up and being a girl.

"The younger me shied away from fighting, but as I got older, I knew this wasn't right and that I should be allowed to join in on conversations about football. So when the opportunity came to become an ambassador of an amazing campaign to empower women to have a voice without fear, I put myself forward. Over the past few months I've been ambassador for Her Game Too Cheltenham, and this has now grown with two incredible ladies coming on board - Mary Stone and Taz Scales.

"Together, we want to help create an environment at The Completely-Suzuki Stadium where women of all ages can feel welcome and safe without fear of sexism and misogyny, knowing there are avenues to report such incidents."

Introducing themselves, Taz explained: "53 years ago the ban of woman playing football was finally lifted, and now we are seeing woman on the big screens influencing the new generation. Her Game Too brings awareness to the struggles woman players and fans may face and how we can eliminate it. I am so excited to work alongside Her Game Too to raise more awareness and inspire the younger generations."

Alongside Taz and Kelly-Marie, Mary reflected on what the campaign is for her: "Her Game Too means being able to go and watch football games wherever I want, whenever I want, without being made uncomfortable. In the short space of time I've been involved with this group, I've connected with so many female football friends, like Kelly and Taz, and sharing our experiences together shows exactly why we're doing what we're doing.

"I'd encourage everyone to find a way to get involved with Her Game Too, it could be through doing something so simple as wearing our badge or taking a more front facing role in tackling sexism in football."
